Unique Decorating with Ethnic Inspirations

Ethnic Inspirations by Marshaé is a wall covering company dedicated to developing wall coverings for children of various ethnic backgrounds. Their wall coverings create an inspirational atmosphere for children to see positive images of themselves. They have many designs for African-American families and they are working on having other designs available for people of other ethnic backgrounds as well as borders that express cultural diversity.

Owner, M. Ramona Dorsey launched Ethnic Inspirations by Marshaé in April 2002. The proud mother of three children, Ramona was inspired to create the company when searching for wallpaper for her daughter's room. Unable to find any wallpaper that featured African American children, she went on a mission to create her own line and achieved her goal. She has received training from some of the wall covering industry's best and most experienced professionals.

Ann Mount paints from her studio in Tucker. Her paintings are in galleries and private collections in the United States and abroad. Born and raised in the metropolitan Atlanta area, Ann has been fascinated and challenged by the contrast of her city life, with the simple charm of country living. "I try to say something significant about a simpler time gone by. I would hope they offer more than a feeling of nostalgia ... but reflect a strength and serenity," Ann says about her art. Ann collaborated with Ramona Dorsey to create the "Expressions of Children" Collection of Borders and Art Prints.
